How to Use the INDEX

This index is essentially a subject index, not an index of titles. Articles treating a number of different subjects are indexed under each of them. Wherever the article relates to any particular transportation company, the item is listed under the company's name.

References to the activities of associations are given under the names of the various organizations. Short descriptions of machine tools appear under the heading "Garages and Shops."

Below will be found a list of the common keywords used in the index in this volume.
